GENERAL NEWS.

The Trade Dollar.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The senate finance committee this morning by a majority have made several important amendments in the house bill providing for the exchange of the trade dollars for legal-tender silver dollars and to repeal the [illegible] after the first day of January next. The bill as reported to the senate proposes to postpone the operation of the act till next December, with the understanding, however, that the bill and amendments are to be reported to the senate as soon as practicable. The principal amendment adopted to-day provides that the exchange of legal tender dollars for trade dollars shall be at the market value of the latter, regarded as bullion, and not at par as provided by the house measure, and also a rule that the house proviso, that the trade dollars so coined under this act shall not be counted as part of the coinage of silver required by the act of February 28, 1878. The vote on the question of adopting these amendments, and also on postponing repeal till next December was as follows: Yeas Bayard, Kernan, Morrill, and Ferry—nays Wallace, Voorhees, and Beck. Senators Allison, and Jones, of Nevada, were paired. The principal reason for not reporting the bill this session was to preclude the possibility of the Warner silver bill being moved as an amendment in the senate in advance of completed consideration and report of that measure by the committee.

The Drowning Near.

NEW YORK, June 26.—The coroner to-day resumed the Hull murder inquest and hopes to bring it to a close in time to permit the grand jury, whose term expires Saturday, of presenting an indictment against Cox, the murderer. The pawn broker and police added little under oath to the stories they have already given the public. The room in which the inquest was held was crowded. Cox endeavored to avoid the gaze of the crowd.

Capt. Williams testified that some of the bandages evidently had been taken from the sheets on the bed. The eyes were tied with stockings. All the bandages matched some part of the bed clothing, with the exception of the bandages over the eyes, which was a piece of an old ironing cloth which had been used by the girl, Nancy. There were no marks of violence on the body except a slight scratch by the side of the nose, a little under one eye, and a slight abrasion on one hand. The bandages on Mrs. Hull's legs had been torn from the counterpane. One pillow was a little discolored, apparently by some liquid which had oozed from Mrs. Hull's mouth. There was also a small spot of blood upon it. The bandage which had been taken from the ironing cloth had originally been used by Nancy as a bandage on her own wrist, which she had sprained. Mrs. Hull advised her to replace it by a flannel bandage, and when it was taken off it was left in Mrs. Hull's room.

Mr. Townsend counsel for Dr. Hull's family asked Capt. Williams if it was true as reported that a man had told him, the witness, that Dr. Hull had consulted with him before in regard to committing the crime.

Capt. Williams said that a man had said Dr. Hull had spoken to him not about murdering Mrs. Hull but about a job that he had on hand. The man was not present and he did not know his name.

Coroner Waltman said he had seen the man in question and had heard his story several times. He did not know his name and had a reason for not asking.

Bella Johnson related the story of Cox giving her jewelry. As the assistant district attorney began to question the witness as to the time when Cox came to see her she began to cry bitterly and then passed into fits of hysterics. She fell back in convulsions, and was carried from the court room. Soon afterwards the case was given to the jury who returned the verdict that Mrs. Jane L. De Forest Hull came to her death by violence at the hands of Chatin Cox.

A Fatal Affray.

ST. LOUIS, June 26.—A Lexington, Mo., dispatch says R. N. Taylor and Robert Taylor, brothers, and B. C. Wren, all farmers between whom an old feud existed, met at Aullville, Lafayette county yesterday, and renewed the quarrel. The Taylors fired four balls into Wren's body, mortally wounding him, and Wren killed R. N. Taylor instantly and fatally wounded Robert.

Strikes Over.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 26. With the exception of Flint mill all the mills started this morning. Flint has no filling on hand, but is making arrangements to start Monday. The streets are very quiet with groups of spinners standing around. Some of the back boys, second hands, etc., are doing duty in place of the spinners.

PROVIDENCE, June 26. The striking spinners and weavers of the Westerly woolen mills resumed work today under a compromise.

Heavy Storm.

DES MOINES, IA., June 26.—Reports coming in from central and western Iowa and eastern Nebraska show great damage done by Tuesday night's storm to bridges, farm buildings, and grain. The only loss of life reported is that of the wife and two daughters of B. McCorless, near Stewart, Iowa. They were drowned by the overflow of Deer Creek.

Wedding in the Spirit World.

LEAVENWORTH, June 26. There is considerable excitement in this city over a report published in the Times of Wednesday morning of the wedding in the spirit world of a daughter of Col. J. F. Eaton, to a son of ex President Pierce. The ceremony is said to have been performed in a spiritual bower and by one who now resides in the spirit land. The bride died about thirty years ago, an infant, and the groom was killed when a small boy. The ceremony on the 20th was celebrated at Col. Eaton's home in Leavenworth, only a few chosen friends being present. A splendid wedding breakfast was prepared and dishes arranged for the bridal pair, who are reported to have appeared in a materialized form to those present. The bride was elegantly attired and the groom was dressed in the conventional style of the present time. The above is in substance what was learned by the reporters and afterwards substantiated by a complete report over Colonel Mott, the mediatizing medium was in the cabinet during the ceremony. An interview with Colonel H. D. Mackay which will appear in the Times to-morrow further substantiates the facts. All who were connected with the affair say it was one of the most pleasant that ever occurred in the world. Col. Price had a diagram of the bower in which the ceremony was performed, and which he received from Prof. Mansfield. The number of spiritual guests present was near fifty. The diagram shows the points of ingress and egress to the bower, and how the guests were arranged during the wedding. It is one of the most interesting affairs which has taken place in this country for years.

FOREIGN.

Mass for the Dead Prince.

PARIS, June 26. There is an immense attendance at the mass of requiem for the Prince Imperial at the Church of St. Augustine. The working classes are only meagerly represented. Prince Jerome Bonaparte and his son, Prince Victor are present, also Lord Lyons, British ambassador, and other diplomatic representatives. There has been no disturbance.

NEW YORK, June 26.—A dispatch from Paris says of the mass to day for the Prince Imperial: Precisely at noon the bells began tolling, and the services commenced. There was no catafalque, black capers were spread in front of the altar, the chairs of the imperial family and of the dignitaries, senators and deputies were covered with black cloth. Prince Jerome Napoleon, Princess Clothilde and their two sons and Princess Mathilde were seated in front of the altar. As they entered the church all present genuflected. The mass which was a low one, was celebrated by Abbe Lagne, formerly almoner of the imperial chapel. The papal nuncio was present. The only persons who appeared much affected were Prince Victor and his brother. When Prince Jerome Napoleon was leaving the church there was but little attention shown him by Bonapartists even. When he reached the street there were signs of decided indifference, a few hats raised was all the salutation he received.
